HANDICRAFTWORK

"The Barrier," is given its first performances in Boston this week at the Castle Square by the John Craig Stock Company. It is the dramatization of the highly interesting novel of Rex Beach's of the same name.

The Lindsay Morison Stock Company at the Majestic continues with "The Man Who Owns Broadway."

A big display of fireworks is made a feature of the Paragon Park entertainment on Wednesday and Saturday evenings.

Some of the best vaudeville acts are seen at Norumbega Park afternoons and evenings.

The vast crowds that have attended the Castle Square Theatre the past week speak much for that All Star Stock Company (known as The John Craig Stock Co.), in playing the very latest dramas of the day with all the ability of the much coached company of players who originally played the same piece successfully in America's largest cities. Then Howell Hansel, the added member to the Company, has a host of admirers in Boston, and as we predicted in our previous number, received one of the greatest ovations ever given to any one performer on the Boston stage. (Take any Tremont St. car and get off at the Theatre.)

THINGS WORTH SEEING

Creatore's Famous Band at the American League Park

That Creatore stands unique among bandmasters has already been demonstrated in Boston, and his engagement at the American League Base Ball Park, which commences tomorrow evening, gives Boston music lovers another opportunity to hear the great artist and his band.

And what a band it is! The dynamic value of every player's tone varying not a hair's breadth from that of the player next him, and a whole group of instruments or the whole orchestra rising and falling as one, at one moment smooth as the even breath of a quiet sleeper, and at the next as wild as all the elements of nature turned loose, but as perfectly ordered as nature. Apparently he coaxes his players at one moment; he bullies them at the next; he beseeches, and then he compels, and seems actually to lift or push the tone out of them. And he is in the midst of them all apparently at once. Never does he stand for a minute at his music stand. But, anyway, there is no music on it. He conducts entirely without notes, and when it is understood that the programmes contain 10 numbers, besides three times as many encores, it dawns upon one that the man must possess a tremendous memory as well as musicianly ability. For the latter he certainly has. While all are well played and receive the appreciation due to their artistic rendition, it is evidenced to everybody that Creatore's heart and art are beyond mere pretty waltzes and stirring marches.

The following programme has been selected for Monday evening:

	PART I.
1			March
3	-		Overture
3		- J	Rondo D'AmourVon Westerhout
4			Second Hungarian Rhapsodie Listz
			Intermission.
			PART II.
			Waltz
6			Internezzo
7			Sextette from Lucia bomzetti
			Solos by Signori Pascali, Pasqualoni, Rossi, Molmara De Luca and Caso.
×			Grand Selection

Solos by Signori Pascali, Rossi and De Luca.

For the amusement of the patrons of the Castle Square this week the John Craig Stock Company presents "My Friend From India." The initial presentation of "Boys of Co. B," in this city is made by the Lindsay Morison Stock Company at the Majestic.

The Meistersingers continue the feature of the vaudeville programme at Keith's.

Vaudeville afternoons and evenings in a magnificent open air theatre is one of the attractions at Norumbega where there are cool breezes at all times.

Paragon Park at Nantasket, is the mecca this summer for various outings of city organizations who find the ocean breezes a pleasant

The choicest confections to be found in town. For the person who appreciates the best they afford great satisfaction. # THINGS WORTH SEEING

Creatore's Famous Band at the American League Park

Creatore is at his best and the band under his leadership equals any yet heard here. The concerts continue every evening with an entire change of programme, and Boston now has an opportunity to enjoy the out-door concerts given throughout the country. The Sunday programme is considered one of the strongest musically given thus far.

To write of Creatore and his band is but to write of Creatore and his personality, his personal magnetism, and his ability as a conductor.

Never has a conductor received such a welcome as that accorded to him the past week at the American League Park. He and his band opened their engagement on Monday evening and have played to the most appreciative audiences during the week.

Creatore is generous with his encores and the popular selections given as encores are as well received as those of more musical value, and the programme for the week shows a mixture of new and familiar music. The programme for Sunday is as follows:

PART I

1	March
2	-Overture Raymond
3	-Vision Blon
4	-Suite
	(a) Marche; (b) Au de Ballet; (c) Angelus; (d) Fete Boheme.
	Intermission.
	PART II.
	- Prelude Lohengrin
6	-Cornet SoloInflammatus from Stabat MaterRossum
Sig. Pascali
7	-Intermezzo Pomponet
8	-Grand SelectionBizet
	Solos by Signori Pascali, Rossi and De Luca,

Another opportunity comes to the Boston public this week to see "Mrs. Wiggs of the Cabbage Patch," which has pleased large audiences at all previous presentations. By repetition, it loses none of the bright and amusing features. The Lindsay Morison Stock Company at the Majestic Theatre has undertaken to perform the play, and the patrons of the house forget the summer weather in the enjoyment of Mrs. Wiggs.

Another suitable play for the present mid-summer season is "On the Quiet," at the Castle Square. The members of the John Craig Stock Company appear in the funny characters to advantage.

Record breaking crowds are visiting Paragon Park at Nantasket Beach, Norumbega Park on the Charles River and Lexington Park. The entertainment is varied at each.

Your trip to Boston not complete unless you visit the Martha Washington Store.

Creatore's Famous Band at the American League Park

This is the last week to hear the Famous Creatore and his bund at the American League Basel all Park. These wonderful concerts have been attended by thousands of people, and at times one would think to look at the grand stand and bleachers that some big post series game was in action, so great were the crowds. The applause of these vast crowds have been deafening at times after a brilliant selection of some popular or classical musical number. This is the first time that Boston has had an opportunity to enjoy open air concerts in a cool pavilion by such a famous musical organization as Creatore's Band. The program is changed entirely for each performance and during this, the last week, some extraordinary musical numbers will be featured. The following is the programme for Sunday evening:

THINGS WORTH SEEING

Creatore's Famous Band at the American League Park

Owing to the enormous demand for scats the management has mole arrangements with Creatore's personal manager to continue his popular concerts one week more at the American League Grounds, before starting on his New England tour. The concerts given nightly, including Sunday, are pronounced by critics to be the finest ever heard in this city, and that is saying much for Creatore.

It must be very gratifying to the management to be promoters of such an outdoor amusement, proving so successful from week to week, each week guaranteeing the extension of the engagement from time to time, until it seems as though Creatore and his famous band could go on giving concerts nightly for the rest of the season. The program is changed nightly, and those missing one of these delightful concerts are overlooking one of Boston's best summer attractions.

You will confer a favor by mentioning THIS WEEK IN BOSTON when making purchases from advertisers.

THINGS WORTH SEEING

This week opens some of Boston's big playhouses which is the all that summer is on the wane. The Tremont opens with Henry Savage's raging success, "Excuse Me," a connedy in three acts, scenes laid in Pullman parlor cars. That well-known black-d comedian, Willis Sweatman, has one of the principal parts. York critics claim it is the best thing Sweatman has ever done, big cast of good performers make the three acts a carnival of hter.

Bobby Barry in "The Girl in the Taxi," opens at the Boston, this wwas seen here last season, and proved very successful.

Mr. Morison, Manager of the Majestic and sole owner of the Isay Morison Stock Co., will revive that old time favorite, "Old Prouty," the show ought to do good business.

Boston's own Rose Pitonof, the champion swimmer of one hundred its, is the stellar attraction at Keith's this week, with the balance he acts "great."

The South End Theatre (formerly the Columbia), throws its sopen Monday, with the Lowe policy of entertainment which has e Mr. Lowe famous all over the world from a theatrical point iew. The theatre proper has been refitted and redecorated at an use of some $30,000 and now is one of the handsomest playhouses he city. The vaudeville will be the best American and European that money can procure, and the Pictures, the last award in the ecting business. No doubt this will be a well patronized house as word, Lowe, stamps approval on the opening.

Continued success is the reward of the Coronation pictures at remont Temple. They are reproduced in colors with all the reality life, the ceremonials and processions of the recent great event in ondon, and they bring to us the actual scenes and incidents exactly they were. Many things have happened recently to demonstrate eir increasing popularity. Mrs. Jack Gardner went one afternoon ith a friend intending to spend only a few moments, but remained e whole two hours, bought three tickets on her way out, and came ter to purchase seven seats for a single performance. John Hays ammond, the special ambassador to the Coronation, was an interested vectator recently, and expressed his delight. These are but a few stances of many that might be cited. # THINGS WORTH SEEING "The Round Up," is the attract on this week at the Boston. It a nopular play of Western hie, with coalons, Inlians and Forses,

A masical play, entitled "The Trouble Makers," with Worl and okes, is presented at the Globe

Military melodrama of the far southway, "A Prison ratio ife," is the offering at the Grand Opera House

Helen Ware is the star in "The Price," a play in three acts at ie Hollis Street.

"Barriers Burned Away," at the Majestic is a dramatication of 1. P. Roe's once popular novel of the Chicago fire.

THE CASTLE SQUARE THEATRE REOPENS.

The opening of the Castle Square, Friday evening, September 1st, as an event long to be remembered. The theatre was crowded to ne doors to greet Mr. Craig, his company and "The Rose of the ancho," and the applause was literally given and judiciously disibuted to every feature of one of the most successful productions ver given on the Castle Square stage.

The Rose of the Rancho" will be continued through the coming eek, and indications are that the theatre will be crowded at every enformance, afternoon and evening. The play itself is deserving of triumph, for it is both an acting and a scenic drama, and its stage ttings at the Castle Square are bewilderingly beautiful. Mary Young takes a delightful Juanita, the heroine who falls in love with an merican youth, and Mr. Craig fairly outdid as Kearney all his preious efforts at the portrayal of heroic youth

The other roles are no less well acted. ## THINGS WORTH SEEING

NEW PLYMOUTH TO OPEN SEPT. 23d.

Liebler's new playhouse on Eliot Street is to throw its doors open Saturday evening, Sept. 23d, the opening attraction being the Dublin Players, direct from the Abbey Theatre, Dublin, Ireland. The theatre in size has some 1500 seating capacity, and is beautifully decorated. The latest ideas in theatre construction have been put in evidence to the smallest detail. It might well be here stated that some of the best and most successful shows in the United States are controlled by Liebler & Co. Some of the coming attractions to the Plymouth this season are: "Alias Jimmy Valentine," "Pomander Walk," and Viola Allen in a new show. The two former attractions have made remarkable tuns in New York. The house will be under the local management of Fred G. Wright.

The John Craig Stock Company at the Castle Square appears this week in "Her Husband's Wife," which has many entertaining features.

This is the last week of the Lindsay Morison Stock Company at he Majestic, and the piece chosen for the closing event is the old avorite, "Jim, the Penman."

A melodrama with many exciting incidents is "The Cowboy and he Thief," at the Grand Opera House.

THINGS WORTH SEEING

Raymond Hitchcock in "The Red Widow," at the Colonial, is makthe hit of his life. This somewhat different musical treat is far ad of anything "Hitchy" has done since the days of the "County airman," of course Hitchcock is good in anything but—we were aparing the different plays we have seen him in. "The Red dow" will run for a long time at the Colonial, if the line seen by at the box office is any criterion.

The New National Theatre opens its doors this week with one the Biggest Vaudeville Shows ever seen in this city. A complete natrel First Part will open the show, with such well known minels as Lew Benedict, Hughy Docherty, "Bob" Evans, and other ck-face favorites, including the Columbian double quartette, with rogram of Vaudeville to follow that would drive the average first-ss Vaudeville house to shame. The New House is located at Trent and Berkeley Streets, and is the largest in Boston if not in the ited States.

A revival of "The Bohemian Girl," by the Aborn English Grand ra Company takes place this week at the Majestic.

A program of many novelties is presented by "Thurston, the cician," at the Globe.

"Beverly of Graustark," a picturesque play of the "Prisoner of ela" type, is the offering at the Castle Square.

To the Grand Opera House comes the realistic moral drama, atled "Ten Nights in a Bar Room."

The opening of the new Plymouth takes place Saturday evening, of 23. The Irish National Theatre Company from Dublin gives sort performance in America upon this occasion.

THINGS WORTH SEEING

NEW PLYMOUTH OPENS WITH THE DUBLIN PLAYERS.

William Butler Yeats, the famous Irish poet and dramatist, arrived in Boston Thursday with the members of the Irish National Theatre Company, from the Abbey Theatre, Dublin. The company of Irish players are booked for a long engagement at the New Plymouth Theatre, Eliot Street, just West of Tremont, during which they will produce the tragedies and comedies written by J. M. Synge, Lady Gregory, Mr. Yeats, and the others of that brilliant band of playwrights who have made the new school of Celtic dramatic-literature. Mr. Yeats has been in Boston before, when he lectured on his ideas of the Irish drama several years ago at Harvard Univrsity, but none of the company had ever crossed the Atlantic before. The Irish players were delighted with Boston and some of them found interest in tracing the resemblance of certain of Boston's busy streets with the familiar thoroughfares of Dublin.

They had not been off the steamship Zecland many hours before they were busy rehearsing. Rehearsals really were not necessary, for they have played the pieces in the repertory for years. They felt however a certain nervousness over making their debut in America, and so put up patiently with the rehearsals they funcied necessary to bring them up to the form always demanded by their enthusiastic Dublin audiences at the Abbey Theatre, and Dublin, as all who know it are aware, is very rigorous in its demands on the artists of its theatres.

The opening will be a triple bill, comprising Synge's comedy, "The Shadow of the Well;" T. C. Murray's tragedy, "Birthright," and Lady Gregory's comedy, "Hyacinth.

Louis Mann appears at the Hollis Street this week in a play made for him by his wife, Clara Lipman and Samuel Shipman, entitled, "Elevating a Husband." It tells the story of a shrewd Yankee, how he made money in New York, how a woman married him as the most available man in sight, how she tried to give him polish and how he ended by saving her from an "affair" with one of his business friends.

To the Park comes "Get-Rich-Quick Wallingford," George Cohan's amusing American play of two "con-men," their elaborate descent upon Battlesburg, and how accident turned them honest. The piece was kept in New York for four hundred performances.

THINGS WORTH SEEING

After a remarkably long and successful run in New York City, "The Gamblers," from the pen of Charles Klein, opens an engagement at the Majestic Theatre. "The Gamblers" is under the management of the Authors' Producing Company, which has already gained an enviable reputation for the selections of its plays and players, and for the care and attention with which the vehicles are mounted. In writing this play Mr. Klein has maintained the high standard he reached in his former successes, "The Music Master," "The Third Degree," "The Lion and the Mouse," etc. Throbbing with human interest, it is a masterpiece of dramatic construction, and furnishes unlimited opportunity for fine acting and clever character portrayal. It is sure to meet with a success here fully as great as that which attended it in the metropolis.

Billy B. Van, that delightfully droll comedian, comes to the Globe Theatre in his newest and best vehicle. "A Lucky Hoodoo." If the play does not come up to expectations, it will be the first time that Billy has failed to make good. Those who have seen him in his Patsy Bolivar successes will believe him worth seeing alone, no matter what the calibre of the vehicle in which he is appearing. But assurances have been given that "A Lucky Hoodoo" is a worthy successor of "Patsy Bolivar," and the surrounding company is excellent.

The announcement that Miss Beverly West has been especially engaged by John Craig for a prominent role in "Forty-five Minutes from Broadway," will be welcomed by her legion of local friends, who have followed her career in stock productions at the Castle Square, and with the Lindsay Morison Company. Miss West possesses all the requisites of a successful actress, a charming personality, an abundance of good looks and plenty of artistic talent. Her return to stock is only temporary, for she expects to join a road company in the near future.

Seldom has a company of players received the favorable comment and marked appreciation which has been bestowed on the Irish Players who are appearing in a repertory of Irish plays at the new Plymouth Theatre. There is a naive sincerity and naturalness about their work that has made a strong appeal to local theatregoers. They have demonstrated that there is far more in the Irish drama than we have been led to believe in the past.

THE BEAUTIFUL VALESKA SURRATTE RETURNS TO THE HOLLIS

"The Red Rose," with Valeska Surratte in the central character sethe offering this week at the Hollis Street. This musical comedy was seen last spring at another theatre in this city, and was so well not favorably received that the management decided to play a return ngagement. The costumes and scenic arrangements are lavishly lisplayed.

A story of rural New England, "Another Man's Wife," comes o the Grand Opera House. It is interspersed with comedy as a elief to the melodramatic plot.

The Irish Players at the Plymouth appear in seven plays. On Ionday and Tuesday evenings and Wednesday afternoon the plays re: "The Harvest," and "Falsely True." For Wednesday and hursday evenings and Saturday afternoon the pieces are: "The Iour Glass," "The Cross Roads," and "Spreading the News." On riday and Saturday evenings the presentations are "Mineral Works," and "The Jackdaw."

THE CORONATION PICTURES STILL AT THE TREMONT TEMPLE.

The Coronation pictures seem destined to go on forever at Temont Temple. Their tenth week begins next Monday, and the nanagement naturally takes great pride in the sympathetic praise eard on all sides, and especially in the number of letters received hanking them for the wonderful treat of bringing the great events of the Coronation ceremonies three thousand miles across the ocean, such an entertainment has never before been given in Boston, comining as it does all the pleasures of sight-seeing at home with one of the most marvellous exhibitions of the wonders of modern color hotography. The entertainment lasts for two hours, and is given wice daily, at 2.30 in the afternoon and at 8.15 in the evening.

THINGS WORTH SEEING

Miss Lulu Glaser appears in "Miss Dudelsack" at the Boston this week. It is a German operetta, with scenes laid in England and Scotland, and the plot of a young Scotsman who sacrifices a castle and a fortune for a poor peasant girl only to find that she is in reality a titled heiress.

"The Playboy of the Western World" is the offering at the Plymouth, a comedy of the youth who becomes a hero in a new community by the representation that he has murdered his father, until the wrathful parent descends upon him.

The famous detective play, "Arsene Lupin," is given at the Castle Square, with Mr. Craig in the title role.

Richard J. Jose sings his old-time songs at the Grand Opera House in connection with his play of rural New England life, "Silver Threads."

At the Globe "The White Sister" is the attraction.

Harry Lauder appears at four performances, Oct. 20 and 21 at the Boston Opera House.

The offering at the Shubert is Doris Keane in "The Warning," a story of a heroine reared in an Alaska mining camp, a "man of the world," a gambler and a sympathetic police captain. It has been received as an entertaining detective play, with three "big" scenes from which Tress Conway, after several exciting adventures, finally emerges in time to save her lover, who has been an unfortunate victim of circumstances and villainy.

AT THE CASTLE SOUARE THEATRE.

Everybody likes a detective story, and everybody likes to witness the exciting scenes of a detective play. The latter will be offered at the Castle Square next week in "Arsene Lupin," one of the strongest and most entertaining of dramas that have been produced in this country in many a long season. It is a dramatization from the novel of the same name, and its plot involves the adventures of an audacious French thief who delights in robbing the mansions of the rich of their treasures. It is in three acts and four scenes, and it was presented with unexampled success in the theatres of Paris before being offered to the theatre-goers of England and America.

The action of "Arsene Lupin" begins in the palatial mansion of

The action of "Arsene Lupin" begins in the palatial mansion of M. Gournay-Martin, a plebian Frenchman who has grown tremendously rich, and soon the hunt is on, and the detective after the thief in full cry. Those who have been entertained by "Sherlock Holmes" and "Raffles" will be sure to like "Arsene Lupin," for it is a continuous succession of scenes that keep the audience guessing till the very end. At the Castle Square next week Mr. Craig will appear in the tille role, Mary Young will play the heroine, and there will be a large cast, special scenery, and a perfect all-round production.

THINGS WORTH SEEING

"Madame Sherry," the music of which has reached Bostonians, spresented this week at the Tremont. Miss Abarbanell continues in the chief part, and there are eight secondary women that replace he usual chorus of the musical plays. The plot concerns the inquiries of an Uncle Theophilus into the conjugal ways and deceits of his ephew, who happens to be the principal of a dancing academy.

Blanche Bates comes to the Hollis in the production of Avery Topwood's play, "Nobody's Widow." The action passes at Palm Beach, and follows, with many unexpected and whimsical turns, the uarrels and reconciliations of an English Duke and his American pouse. Miss Bates appears as a comedienne.

On Tuesday evening, October 24, "The Blue Bird" opens at the hubert, the presentation being the same as that at the New Theatre 1 New York. The play and the performance have their threefold uality of poetic spectacle, fairy tale and gentle and symbolic wisdom.

"Beyond the Divide" is the attraction at the Grand Opera House.

The music comedy, "The Newlyweds and Their Baby," is the ffering at the Globe.

CASTLE SQUARE THEATRE.

For his first Shakespearean production of the season. Mr. Craig as selected the favorite romantic comedy, "As You Like It," and it ill be given at the Castle Square next Monday. This play is one at shows Shakespeare's skill at its highest, and with its clever ot involving the fortunes of Orlando and Rosalind, and a half dozen ther equally important characters, it has entertained the playgoers I many ages, ranging in time from the beginning of the seventeenth nutry to the present hour.

All the scenes of "As You Like It," with the exception of the rst act, are laid in the far-famed Forest of Arden. Thither all the naracters come, some for one purpose, some for another, and they uch play their part in the delightful comedy of love, mystery and mance. Nothing could be more pleasing to the mind and more stful to the eye than the woodland scenes that follow each other prough act after act, and of the characters Rosalind ranks with ortia, Viola and Juliet among Shakespeare's wonderful group of minine creations.

To the character of Rosalind in Mr. Craig's production of "As ou Like It" Mary Young will bring a winning personality and a yous temperament, and it will place her in the forefront of Shakesarean actresses. As Orlando Mr. Craig will have a role to which will give the buoyancy of youth, while the remainder of the cast ill be carefully arranged from the personnel of the Castle Square ayers. The scenery and costumes will also be faithfully attended to

The Plymouth presents this week, for the first time in this city, "Pomander Walk," an amusing comedy, which has been in New York a year. An English company acts the play, depicting the interesting adventures of some people in a quiet corner of London one hundred years ago.

"The Three Romeos," at the Colonial, is in this city also for the first time. Georgia Caine heads the company which appears in this musical play. The amorous and comic adventures in a Girls' Seminary are presented.

"Doctor Beans from Boston" is the offering of the colored company, styled the "Smart Set," at the Grand Opera House.

The Castle Square has a revival of "The Right of Way," a melodrama of wild Canada drawn from the like-named novel of a strong man's struggle with himself and hard circumstances.

On Thursday, November 2, a revival of "Ben-Hur" opens at the Boston for a long run.

Lina Abarbanell in "Madame Sherry," with Chas. J. Ross, are drawing big houses at the Tremont Theatre. Madame Sherry is one of last season's big musical hits.

This is the second week of "Nobody's Widow," with Miss Blanche Bates as the star, at the Hollis Street Theatre.

"The Blue Bird" remains at the Shubert for another week.

"Get Rich Quick Wallingford," George M. Cohan's greatest success, is on its sixth week of its run at the Park Theatre.

"The Gamblers," by Charles Kleim, continues to draw large audiences at the Majestic, and it's well worth seeing, as the scenery and acting is far above the average play coming to Boston for some time

THINGS WORTH SEEING

BOSTON ARENA OPENS

The world's Greatest Ice Skating Palace, opens its doors Saturday evening, November 11th, with a mammoth benefit in aid of the Free Women's ir spital, which promises to surpass anothing of the knot be given in Boston. The Boston Arena Management working in onlymetion with Mrs. Harold Baser, whose untiring efforts in benefit of the Benefit has been fortunate in enlisting the services of some of the world's greatest ice performers to give exhibitions in fancy and ligure skating.

George A. Meagher, a skater of international reputation whose spectacular performances have thrilled the spectator public both in his country and abroad, will be seen for the first time in this city. Mr. Fritz Schmitt late from a tour of finest ice palaces in Europe, is a kater of international reputation, who will also contribute toward makng the program one that will be well worth witnessing.

General skating at the end of the Professional Exhibition can be enjoyed by those who desire, at this, the opening of the third successful season of the great indoor Ice Skating Palace.

For the first performance on any stage, Charles Klein's new comtender, "The Outsiders," is presented this week at the Majestic, the cast being drawn largely from the players of "The Gamblers." It is a tory of the social struggles of an ambitious Western family newly setled in New York. While the heads of the opposing families quarted wer libel suits and admittance into fashionable clubs, the children fall in love with each other. When the conservative arrogance and good reeding of it. East have been matched amount of the rough cradities with cood heartedness of the West and neither side has triumphed either norally or materially, the children, as individual examples of the virtues of both sections become engaged. The comedy interest depends largely in the contrast of types. An important addition to the cast is Sarah Truax. Mr. Klein launches his new play in this city because it is here hat he first presented "The Lion and the Mouse," and "The Third Degree," and also for the reason that he desired to have the same ompany appearing in "The Gamblers" appear in it.

At the Hollis, "Snobs," is offered for the first time in this city, ith Frank McIntyre. Appearing first as a millman, he by turn of ortune inherits a dukedom, upsets the social equanimity and kindles to petty social rivalries of a little city. The play treats these things arcically and Mr. McIntrye has plenty of opportunity for his bulk and umor. It has been seen in New York lately. The star is known for is good work in "The Traveling Salesman," and "The Commuters."

Bonita is at the Globe in the new musical play called "The Real irtl." She was seen here before in "Wine, Woman and Song."

There is a revival of "The Last Word," at the Castle Square.
Dante's immortal poem, "The Inferno," is being produced for two ceeks at the Grand Opera House as a motion picture drama.

THINGS WORTH SEEING

Henry W. Savage brings to the Majestic this week for its initial presentation in Boston the modern morality play, "Everywoman." It comes direct from New York, where it achieved a long and triumphant run. The play is written in five canticles, expressed in blank verse, and although allegorical in form, the spirit and treatment are essentially modern. The characters are all symbolic types, but they are all recognizable portraits of living, breathing men and women of today. The title character is a beautiful, ardent young woman, who sets forth on a pilgrimage in quest of love, accompanied by her handmaidens, Youth, Beauty and Modesty. She first listens to the honeyed words of Flattery, and spurns Truth, who appears in the form of a witch. She is courted by Passion, who professes to be Love, encounters wealth, whom she abjures after bitter experience, and at last, befriended by Nobody, finds solace in the trenchant voice of Truth and finds King Love awaiting her at her own fireside. The theme is Titanic in conception, and is worked out in masterly fashion by the author, the late lamented Walter Browne, whose aim, successfully attained, was the symbolic representation of modern life in entertaining form. A cast including some of the best known players on the American stage interprets the work. The names of Laura Nelson Hall, Sarah Cowell Le Moyne, Frederic De Belleville and H. Copper Cliffe are in themselves guarantees of notable acting. The ensemble in one scene entails the services of over 200 people. A distinctive feature of the production is the symphonic music by George Whitefield Chadwick which accompanies the action throughout. An augmented orchestra is required to do justice to the music of this, the foremost symphonic composer of America.

.To the Colonial comes Elsie Janis in "The Slim Princess," a musical comedy from George Ade's tale of the Turkish princess who fled to America from the scorn of her friends and family for her meagre figure. Fortunately she pleased a senator's son better.

"Mutt and Jeff" leaves the newspaper pictures and appear at the Globe.

"Daniel Boone on the Trail" is the attraction at the Grand Opera House.

There is a revival of "The End of the Bridge" at the Castle Square.

Extra Matinees will be given Mondays and Fridays at the Shubert Theatre during the run of "The Blue Bird," beginning Next Monday.

THINGS WORTH SEEING

Miss Maude Adams begins a two weeks' engagement in "Chanceler" at the Hollis Street this week. The play had its first presentation after many delays at the Porte St. Martin Theatre in Paris in ebruary, 1910. In January of last year Miss Adams gave the piece of the first time in New York at the Knickerbocker Theatre. There as been great interest shown in the play all over the world, it having ecome, through delays in its production and the novelty of its naracters, widely advertised. It is said that Miss Adams' individual access in the drama has been beyond expectations. The English laptation of the play was made by Louis Napoleon Parker. The our settings are novel in their massiveness, and are decidedly cturesque. The costumes of the birds, hens and animals are autiful. The settings follow in the main the models of the original luction at the Porte St. Martin, and the costumes are after the signs by John W. Alexander, the well-known American artist and resident of the National Academy of Design. All of the inanimate of eactors, so that the fowls and animals might appear no larger than eyought to be. There is a prelude spoken by Miss Adams before e curtain in which the absence of all human beings from the scene explained, and the imagination of the audience is kindled for the enes that are to follow. The matinees the first week are on Weddady and Saturday, and the second week on Thursday (Thanks) ing) and Saturday. Surrounding Miss Adams is a company of venty people.

THINGS WORTH SEEING

The season at the Boston Opera House opens Monday evening with the presentation of "Samson et Dalila." On Wednesday evening "Tosca" is the offering; Friday evening, "Aida," and Saturday afternoon, "Carmen."

Children are plenty in "Pomander Walk" at the Plymouth, but most of them have grown up into childish admirals and such. Brooke-Hoskyn, and of infantile pretences himself, has a goodly family of little ones. But only a single member appears before the footlights, and he is securely wrapped from the damp air of the river and the inquiring eyes of the audience in a nice wooly quilt.

Even such a comedy as "Get-Rich-Quick Wallingford" cannot exist without children. It does manage to worry along for a considerable time with nothing more infantile than an office boy. But just as the "con man" gets his little halo of righteousness in the end, so the author at the Park "rings in"—as he would put it—with all the other tried and true effects of sentimental comedy, the little hopeful. Wallingford must have a child, and with characteristic Cohanic artistry one is not enough; there are twins.

This is the last week of Miss Maude Adams' engagement at the Hollis Theatre in "Chantecler." It is said that Miss Adams' individual success in the drama has been beyond expectations. Surrounding Miss Adams is a company of seventy people.

"Everywoman" continues at the Majestic Theatre.

There is plenty of love, and just a little lust, plenty of battle, and quite a little religion, plenty of spectacle, and a great deal of mechanics in "Ben-Hur" at the Boston.

"The Blue Bird," at the Shubert, has much to commend itself to a discriminating public that desires the right kind of stage imusement.

"Madame Sherry" continues at the Tremont, "The Slim Princess" tolds forth at the Colonial. The Globe continues to present "Mutt and Jeff" to large audiences.

At the Castle Square is the play "Before and After."

The Grand Opera House offers "The Girl of the Streets."

The Boston Arena is furnishing the finest of amusement in Ice Skating sports, three sessions daily, with Band in attendance each session.

THINGS WORTH SEEING

GRAND OPERA.

The Boston Opera House presents for this week:—"Carmen," Ionday; "Faust." Wednesday; "Lucia," Friday, and "Thais," Saturay afternoon. Sunday evening at 8 p. m. a Grand Operatic Concert; popular prices.

AT THE THEATRES.

Klaw and Erlanger's musical comedy, "The Pink Lady," begins s engagement at the Colonial this week, coming here direct from a markable run of a year in New York City. It is said that the piece a marked advance in the style and quality of light musical enterinment, and has been so cleverly set forth, and so amply provided ith essentials of success that it has held sway through the best part two seasons in New York, and ran through the warm summer ell without an abatement of interest in its charms. The book and rics were written by C. M. S. McLellan in an adaptation of the ench farce, "Le Satyre," by George Berr and Marcel Guillemaud, hich ran for a year in Paris. It is a story that would interest and ouse the hearty laughter of an audience were it played without a te of music. The delightful score which so enriches it, however, as composed by Ivan Caryll, of numerous Gaiety Theatre successes. aw & Erlanger have outdone themselves in the production, and it to is a revelation of color, harmony and effective presentment upon large scale. In the cast will be found Frank Lalor, Hazel Dawn, ice Dovey, Jack Henderson, Alice Hegeman, Crauford Kent, John bung, Fred Wright, Jr., Harry Depp, Aileen Flaven, Jean Crane, brence Crosbie, Maurice Hegeman and Ben Lissit.

For the second week of Madame Simone's engagement at the ymouth Theatre she will present "The Thief." There will be a turday Matinee only, at 2.15, and curtain at 8.15 sharp evenings.

Ralph Herz returns to this city with "Dr. De Luxe," and is seen a the Tremont. This tuneful and amusing musical comedy was one of the early season's successes at another theatre, and its popularity juties a return engagement. The supporting company is excellent, ad includes Georgia Kelly, Harriet Standen and Polly Prim.

The stock company at the Castle Square offers "Are You a Xison?"

"A Little Outcast" is the attraction at the Grand Opera House.

"Ben-Hur" is nearing the close of its engagement at the Boston.

clee Skating and Hockey at the "Boston Arena." Three sessions dily, except Tuesday and Thursday afternoons.

THINGS WORTH SEEING

At the Boston Opera House this week the presentations are:— "Pagliacci" and "Coppelia," Tuesday; "Carmen," Wednesday; "Aida," Friday; Saturday Matinee, "Cavalleria Rusticanna," with Coppelia: Saturday Night, "Lucia."

Eddie Foy, in a big musical comedy production, entitled "Over the River," will be the Christmas and New Year's attraction at the Tremont, opening Christmas night, under the direction of Charles Dillingham. The new piece has just concluded a prosperous engagement in Chicago at the Studebaker Theatre, and the original company and production will be seen here. The book is by George V. Hobart and H. A. du Souchet, while the music is by John L. Golden. There are at least a dozen new song hits in the production, which are produced in a style always to be expected of a Dillingham show. The musical numbers have been especially rehearsed by R. H. Burnside, who is said to have fairly outdone any of his previous efforts by the gorgeous ensemble effects in the third act, when everyone on the stage appears in Spanish costume. "Over the River" is so called because the story deals with the adventures of a New York man about town, who celebrates too freely and wakes the morning after to discover that he has been sentenced to thirty days on Blackwell's Island, "over the river," as the crooks and police call the penitentiary there. The second act shows Mr. Foy in prison stripes, a woe-begone object serving time and lamenting the fact that there are bars all around him, but he can't get a drink. The chorus is introduced in this act in the guise of beautiful Salvation Army lassies, who are bringing flowers to console the prisoners. The third act, as already mentioned, is a gorgeous riot of color, dance and song. Surrounding Mr. Foy is a large company of well known players, and a chorus of fifty of the prettiest girls that ever left New York. A feature of the performance is a novel dance by the Eight Berlin Madcaps, who are perfect little whirlwind choristers and perform with such absolute abandon that it is a wonder they don't throw themselves over the footlights. The Marvelous Millers, sensational whirlwind dancers, are also with "Over the River."

Millers, sensational whirlwind dancers, are also with Over the River.

For the second and last week of the Sothern and Marlowe engagement at the Shubert the plays are:—Monday, "Romeo and Juliet": Tuesday, "As You Like It"; Wednesday matinee, "Merchant of Venice"; Wednesday night, "Twelfth Night"; Thursday, "Hamlet"; Friday, "Macbeth"; Saturday mat. and night, "Taming of the Shrew."

"The Concert" is presented at the Hollis Street by David Belasco. It is a comedy in three acts adapted for the American stage by Leo Divisibleting who plays an important role in the play. As produced

Ditrichstein, who plays an important role in the play. As produced in Germany, the chief character, a great musician, was rather a sordid individual, but in the Ditrichstein version the character is made to have many redeeming qualities. The play was the chief success in New York last year. The Boston attraction is "The Trail of the Lonesome Pine." The character of the heroine, a barefoot mountain girl, is acted by Charlotte Walker, who played the part with success in other cities. The piece permits of elaborate stage settings, and the production is considered one of the most beautiful ever offered by Klaw and Erlanger At the Grand Opera House "The Two Orphans" is the Christmas week attraction. Continuances include "Princess Zim-Zim," at the Plymouth; "The Pink Lady," at the Colonial; "Get-Rich-Quick Wallingford," at the Park; "Everywoman," at the Majestic; "Mutt and Jeff," at the Globe; and "The Wizard of Oz" at the Castle Square.

Ice Skating and Hockey at the "Boston Arena." Three sessions daily, except Tuesday and Thursday afternoons.

THINGS WORTH SEEING

At the Boston Opera House the presentations are:-"Otello," Monday; "La Boheme," Wednesday; "Pagliacci" and "Coppelia," Friday; Saturday Matimee, "Tosca"; Saturday Night, "Mme. Butterfly"; Sunday Evening, Dec. 31, Grand Operatic Concert at popular prices.

"The Concert," at the Hollis, is a delightful satire on the tendency of women to worship at the shrine of a musical genius. Dorothy Donnelly, in "The Princess Zim-Zim," at the Plymouth, is making many new friends for work in the chief character.

This is the last week in the long run of "Get-Rich-Quick Wallingford" at the Park.

"The Pink Lady," at the Colonial, continues to play to full houses, the action throughout being wholesomely funny There is a spirit of wild mountain life in "The Trail of the Lonesome Pine" at the Boston.

This is the last week of Eddie Foy in the big musical comedy hit, entitled "Over the River," at the Tremont. "Over the River" is under the direction of Charles Dillingham. The piece has just concluded a prosperous engagement in Chicago at the Studebaker Theatre, and the original company and production is seen here. The book is by George V. Hobart and H. A. du Souchet, while the music is by John L. Golden. There are at least a dozen new song hits in the production, which are produced in a style always to be expected of a Dilling-ham show. "Over the River" is so called because the story deals with the adventures of a New York man about town, who celebrates too freely and wakes the morning after to discover that he has been sentenced to thirty days on Biackwell's Island, "over the river," as the crooks and police call the penitentiary there. The second act shows Mr. Foy in prison stripes, a woe-begone object serving time and lamenting the fact that there are bars all around him, but he can't get a drink. The chorus is introduced in this act in the guise of beautiful Salvation Army lassies, who are bringing flowers to console the prisoners. The third act is a gorgeous riot of color, dance and song. Surrounding Mr. Foy is a large company of well known players, and a chorus of fifty of the prettiest girls that ever left New York. A feature of the performance is a novel dance by the Eight Berlin Madcaps, who are perfect little whirlyind choristers, and perform with such absolute abandon that it is a wonder they don't throw themselves over the footlights. The cast includes Lillian Lorraine, Maude Lambert, Josie Sadler, Methven Sisters and the Whirlwind Millers, whirlwind dancers.

William Faversham, who comes to the Shubert this week in "The Fawn," has been complimented by many of his friends upon the remarkable grace and arry lightness which he displays in the first act of the play, where he impersonates an untamed, joy-filled wood-dog, as yet unsubdued by the convention of society. Few persons realize how much time and arduous effort this display cost, for Mr. Fayersham utilizes in his movements nothing less than the elusive classic ballet

An amusing comedy, "Baby Mine," is presented at the Majestic. it being acted by the original company, which includes, beside Marguerite Clark, Walter Jones, Ernest Glendinning and Agnes DeLane. The story of "Baby Mine" is founded on a series of humorous complications of a most original order, and its rare merriment is produced in a legitimate manner. There are triplets palmed off upon a jealous husband to win back his love.

Mutt and Jeff" continues its lengthy engagement at the Globe. "The Wizard of Oz" is retained at the Castle Square.

The attraction at the Grand Opera House is "The Strugglers," a drama of the West. Ice Skating and Hockey at the "Boston Arena." Three sessions daily, except Tuesday and Thursday afternoons.

THINGS WORTH SEEING

At the Boston Opera House this week "Faust" will be given Monday Night; "Pelleas et Melisande," Wednesday; "Lucia" and "Coppelia," Friday; "Regelleto," Saturday, and "Pelleas" Saturday Afternoon. Sunday, at 8 p. m., a Grand Operatic Concert at popular prices.

A new comedy, "The Country Boy," comes to the Park Monday for an engagement. The author's, Mr. Edgar Selwyn, intimate knowledge of the after sun-down life of New York City, especially along "The Great White Way," his keen insight into human nature, his familiarity with the dozens of different types of Broadway habitues, and his sane outlook on life, have enabled him to write a play that appeals to almost every element of human society. It is a play which sets one's thoughts in motion, so that memory stirs up and unlocks the door to reflection. It deals principally with city life and people, giving the experiences of a youth from the country, and showing what the average young man or woman is up against when they start out to forge a path along the way to fortune among the treacherous under-current of metropolitan life.

On Monday night, at the Tremont Theatre, the new "Ziegfeld Follies" will start their annual engagement. It comes here after its sensational runs at the Jardin de Paris in New York, Colonial Theatre in Chicago, and the Chestnut Street Opera House in Philadelphia, with the same cast of stars that played during the engagement at the Jardin de Paris in New York all last summer. In getting these kinds of entertainments together Mr. Ziegfeld is in a class by himself. He has had many imitators, but none have succeeded in organizing a company that the general theatre-going public would support as they have the "Ziegfeld Follies." Everywhere this big "fun institution" goes the theatres are not large enough to accommodate the crowds. In the cast are such notables as Bessie McCoy, Fanny Brice, Leon Errol, Charles A. Mason, Walter Percival, William J. Kelly, Vera Maxwell, Billy Schrode, Brown and Blyer, the Dolly Twins, Stella Chatelaine, Olga Roller, Charles Hessong, Fawn Conway, Lottie Vernon, Peter Swift, Max Scheck; also Bert Williams and the handsomest bevy of feminine pulchritude that ever a producer was able to place under contract. "Ziegfeld's Follies" is in two acts and sixteen scenes, written by George V. Hobart, with music by Maurice Levi and Raymond Hubbell, and staged by Julian Mitchell, who also staged Mr. Ziegfeld's hits, Anna Held in "Miss Innocence," and "The Pink Lady."

May Irwin appears at the Plymouth for a two weeks' engagement in "She Knows Better Now." It is a satirical farce that has met with great success in other large cities.

Probably the best play of its kind in Boston is "The Concert," at the Hollis. For other plays and general information regarding the Theatres see Page 22.

Ice Skating and Hockey at the "Boston Arena." Three sessions daily, except Tuesday and Thursday afternoons.

THINGS WORTH SEEING

At the Boston Opera House this week "Rigoletto" will be given Monday; "The Girl of the Golden West," Wednesday; "Pelleas et Melisande," Friday; "Traviata," Saturday Matinee, and "Aida," Saturday Evening. Sunday, January 14th, a Grand Operatic Concert at popular prices.

John Drew appears at the Hollis Street this week in "A Single Man," a light and farcical comedy seen in New York and well received there. The story concerns Robin Worthington, a bachelor of 43, who, impressed by the happiness of his married brother and his wife, determines to seek a wife for himself. His attention is centered on Maggie Cottrell, a feather-brained young person, whose aspiring mother snatches at the opportunity of a match with such a distinguished author as is Worthington. In the meantime his sister-in-law has a scheme of her own, and invites Louise Parker, a lifelong friend, to visit her, in the hope that Robin will succumb to her charm. Gradually Robin's imagined infatuation for Maggie becomes annoyance at her childishness and irresponsible bearing, and when Miss Heseltine, his secretary, tells him that she must leave his service after the marriage, he suddenly realizes that she is the one whom he really loves. When the rest of the family leave the house to attend a supper party, Robin persuades Miss Heseltine to dine with him, and in the course of the meal the inevitable happens and they avow mutual love. How to break off the engagement with Maggie is the problem presented to Robin, but the matter settles itself when Maggie declares that she feels that Robin is too old to be suited to her, and desires to be released from the engagement. As a side issue is the amusing attempt of Louise Parker to win Robin herself, but she sets her cap in vain. Mr. Drew's company always includes several charming actresses, and "A Single Man" is no exception. Mary Boland plays Miss Heseltine, and her unusual beauty atones for whatever is wanting in her vocal resources. She makes a most appealing figure as the secretary, and if the part is not an especially difficult one, she at least fills it admirably. Thais Lawton as Louise Parker has perhaps the most trying role of the play, and she handles it in a manner which stamps her as a skillful delineator of character. Carroll McComas plays Maggie Cottrell to the life, while Louise Drew and Ivan Simpson are thoroughly satisfying as Mr. and Mrs. Henry Worthington.

Lew Fields' latest production, "The Never Homes," comes to the Shubert. It is said to be a worthy successor to the many mammoth entertainments bearing the Lew Fields trade mark. George W. Monroe is the chief comedian, and he has the merriest role of his career. The play tells the story of a town ruled by suffragettes.

Continuances are:—"May Irwin in "She Knows Better Now" at the Plymouth; "The Wizard of Oz" at the Castle Square; "The Trail of the Lonesome Pine" at the Boston; "Baby Mine" at the Majestic; "Ziegfeld Follies" at the Tremont; "Mutt and Jefi" at the Globe; "The Country Boy" at the Park, and "The Pink Lady" at the Colonial.

Ice Skating and Hockey at the "Boston Arena." Three sessions daily, except Tuesday and Thursday afternoons.
